Selling Pants Pockets.

A Pair of Pants for the Price of the Pockets.

To accommodate customers, we have sold coats and vests from suits so many times during the past six months that we find an unusually large number of odd pants of cheviot, cassimere and worsted suits—all cloths—all styles—stripes, plaids, plain, etc., none worth less than double—to be sold this week for the cost of the cloth and making of the pockets.

IF IT IS NEW AND TRUE THIS COLUMN HAS IT:

Heavy Damage Suit—O. V. Water Tanks Burned—Farmer's Sudden Death—Big Batch of Eddyville Recruits—Dwelling Destroyed by Fire—Lady's Serious Injury—Other Late News.

Warren County Sends a Big Box of Criminals to Ederville This Week.

As a result of the Warren Circuit Court, now in session at Bowling Green, the Eddyville penitentiary's list of convicts was increased ten in number Tuesday. Tuesday morning Sheriff Rott Rodes, Jr., Jailer C. F. Hagerman, Chief of Police Henry Jones, and Messrs. Jno. Jones, Chas. Ewing and Richard Thomas, special deputies, passed through this city, having in charge the following persons who were condemned to death as given below: Dick Dilly, home-breaking, five years; Wm. Davenport, cutting with intent to kill, four years; Dennis Patterson, shooting at another, one year; Dennis Finch, horse-breaking, three years; Luther Drake, cutting with intent to kill three persons; Stephen Hammett, home-breaking, five years; Chas. Robinson, robbery, five years; Steve Holson, robbery, five years; Joe Murrell, robbery, four years, and Simon McCormack, horse stealing, two years. All of the prisoners were colored. The officers landed the "gang" Tuesday afternoon, returning home Wednesday morning.

Two Water Tanks Burned.

The Ohio Valley has had two of her water tanks destroyed by fire in the past few days. On last Friday night the tank at Cerulean Springs was burned and Tuesday night the one at Ligonier, about two miles from Frederick, was reduced to ashes. It has been a custom to have a fire kept up under the tanks at night during the extremely cold weather, and in each of the above cases the fire caught the timber and burned the property. The company's loss is estimated at $800. It is quite likely that both tanks will be rebuilt at once, as it would be very inconvenient to get along without them.

Residence Destroyed by Fire.

The residence of Mr. T. A. Williams situated near Oak Grove, in the southern portion of this county, together with all its contents, was destroyed by fire Sunday. The fire is supposed to have come from a defective flue in the kitchen. The total loss will amount to about $3,500, with $1,000 insurance upon the house.

Died Without Warning.

Mr. W. B. Ennis, one of the oldest and best respected citizens of Lyon county, died very suddenly last Friday morning at his residence near Eddyville. Mr. Ennis had been in feeble health for some time, but had gotten up that morning and was sitting by the fire, when, without a moment's warning, he fell over dead. He was 77 years old. Deceased was a relative of Mr. W. B. Ennis, of this city.

Assaulted by the Conductor.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Riley Ely filed suit against the L. & N. railroad company for $10,000 damages. In the petition it is alleged that Mrs. Ely, while enroute home from Arkansas last week, was assaulted by a sleeping car conductor on duty between Memphis and Louisville.

Agred Lady's Serious Injury.

Mrs. Marion Coombs, of Fairview, nearly ninety years, fell, on the ice one day last week badly fracturing one of her legs, and otherwise seriously injuring herself. Owing to Mrs. Coombs' age, the chances are against her recovery.

An Expensive Snack.

Mit Ward, a Greenville lawyer, was fined $15 in the Louisville police court Wednesday for trying to kiss two young girls whom he met on the street. Ward claimed that he turned against the girls.

New Postmaster at Casky.

Mr. A. A. Winfree was appointed postmaster at Casky Monday, vice C. T. Casky resigned. Mr. Winfree is a well-known and popular gentleman and will doubtless give general satisfaction. He has already taken charge of the office.

Something the Matter.

"Doctor," said the excited man, "will you come to the house at once? My wife's aunt, who is living with us, has something the matter with her lower jaw. She can't get her mouth shut."

"When did it happen?" asked the medicine man, as he drew up his gloves.

"I don't know just when it happened. But to-day was the first time we noticed it."—Cincinnati Tribune.

"LOOKING FORWARD."

A PEEP INTO THE FUTURE OF THE WORLD

When All Mankind Will Be United and Anarchy and Socialism Will Be No More—Will Transportation Solve the Living Questions?

OCOMOTION IN THE nineteenth century has been a great and wonderful, perhaps, in many instances, an amusing thing. To the outside observer the herds of locomotives and steam caravans invented from 1814 to 1895, is form some slight conception of the true philosophy of progress and to realize that all this was merely incidental.

Yet the nineteenth century must be considered only as a mere incubator, a feverish seeker, a sover of ideas and of projects which the twentieth century, more positive, more scientific, better balanced and less sentimental and idealistic, must realize.

Two methods of traction dominate the present. Each is comfortable, speedy and economical. They are steam, electricity and cyclism, the latter representing automatic motion in a still undeveloped stage. All indicate the greatest triumphs of man, more and more dominated by the horse, and adaptations so real and so appropriate as to give indubitable evidence that in the immediate future our cars will be reduced from the rank of necessities to that of luxuries.

Then, the horse relegated to the same status enjoyed by the boar, hamster and squirrel, and so the horse, along the highways the rhythm of trots and gallops, no joyous neighings, no stern, burly breathings of nags oppressed with burdens. In their place would sound the heavy roll of wheels, the whine of every motor, the roar of steam, whistles, everywhere steam or electric carriages, everywhere coaling or petroleum stations, everywhere water tanks for the boilers, restaurants for travelers, blacksmiths for repairs in the machinery, villages transformed into towns and towns into cities, no sophistries, to the folk, the entire landscape invaded by automatic cars and aerial vessels, flying like birds through the air.

Such vehicles will not be without character, and will lend individuality to the scene. Specially remarkable will be the aerial, a motorized air-cushion carriage, fitted with all conveniences. One feature will be the cooking of meals on the boiler, utilized as a sort of homey kitchen, will facilitate the concoction of succulent steaks, of hot pastry and of various delicacies. The car will adopt a convenient "Petroleum" run, as its name indicates, by petroleum furnished with small drawers for medicines, where the heat will keep at a wholesome temperature his aromatic doses, his anti-septic potions, his aromatic vaporizers and insecticides.

Traveling salesmen will speed along in "Drum cars," very giddy in color, and open at the sides so as to exhibit show cases full of tempting baits for women, who will be accompanied with others who will have "bargain" reprieves with strange bits of bribe-a-reprieve in the shape of bottles, pots, cans or boxes, according to the particular line they represent.

The streets of all the great cities—New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Boston, London, Paris, Rome, from the comparative calm to a quiet of the present. Merely human voices of discredited coachmen and car drivers will be drowned in the prodigious and never ceasing tumult of the whistles, the bells, the gongs and other alarms, and some such will be the noise of steamship steam at a moment of accident or collision, the thunderous roll of wheels, the interminable clinking of machinery. The spectacle will be picturesque, though dangerous to the pedestrian.

No horse will appear, save in certain little riding roads, in the suburbs parts. Motorized bicycles, driven by the aid of electricity and developing a high rate of speed by the merest touch of the most emasculated foot, will be the fashionable thing in places like the streets of Paris and London.

The streets of Paris and London among our next door neighbors. I say nothing of the auto-cycles, whose use is so wide spread among our modern population that the skies of to-day have more men skinning through them than there were birds in the prehistoric times.

"These scientific conquests, gentlemen, have, in addition, increased the moral and physical health of the inhabitants of the world, and the diseases, which were the revulsions that for so many centuries afflicted our humanity are at last erased from the register of our misfortunes. It may be said that all these calamities and disasters had only one cause, the stagnation of the being, the egotism of the race, their mutual ignorance of each other—in a word, the inability under which human beings then suffered to get outside of the four walls of their own being, to judge themselves impartially. We have realized the words of a now forgotten poet, 'The world is too narrow for us.' ed lines have survived."

Wh. was not the power the gifts give us?

To see cures as libers see us.

NOTE'S AND NOVELTIES.

The records of Massachusetts are written in an official ink specially made for the purpose.

In England the tax on farming lands exceeds ten per cent of the value of cropland; Egypt it is fourteen per cent.

Explorations of Northern Siberia demonstrate that that region was inhabited by a highly developed, but comparatively primitive, race.

Haverford college has a $10,000 gift, the income of which is to be used in securing a course of lectures each year on biblical subjects.

A Mexican professor of physics proposes to forestall earthquakes by connecting telephones to the pipes of deep artesian wells and to metal plates which are to be placed under rocks.

The Greeks repudiate raised money for "inviting" wealthy citizens to contribute. They always contributed liberally, as on one occasion the head of a rich man in Athens was cut off a refusal.

In Switzerland a milkmaid or man gets better wages if gifted with a good heart, because it has been discovered that a cow will yield quite five more milk if soothed during the process of milking by a pleasant melody.

Several curious golden objects have been unearthed from Etruscan tombs, and one of them, which was supposed to be a ring for a long time, was found to be a bracelet.

It was not until last year that it was discovered that they must have been the heads of wading canes, probably belonging to the dukes of 2,500 years ago.

The individual communion cup innovation is gaining ground, but encountering some obstacles. Plymouth Congregational church at Milwaukee has adopted it, and the bishop of the Milwaukee Episcopal diocese declares that any clergyman within his jurisdiction who uses anything but the chalice will be disciplined.

The Massachusetts board of agriculture issues an annual catalogue of abandoned farms for sale in the state. This year 1,000 farms, about one-half of the 400 farms listed in the catalogue of last year, have been sold. Most of them have been purchased for farming purposes. The average price was $1.50 an acre, and they averaged 100 acres in extent.

HUMAN NATURE.

General Count von Heseler of the German army is a stern old soldier and strict disciplinarian. He has been known to stop a subordinate in the street and make him remove his boots and stockings to see if his feet were clean.

An old-fashioned cathedral verger "lord of the aisles," saw a pious visitor on his knees. The verger hastened to the sacristy to get a book of ritual and excitement. "The services in this cathedral are at 10 in the morning and 4 in the afternoon, and we don't have any fancy prayers."

A minister in a small country village, who was noted for his abstemiousness, stopped a woman who was walking up a cabbage, and I thought to myself, "Now, if that cabbage comes up suddenly she'll go over, and just then it came up and over she went."

One when Prince Bismarck was still a count the princess was represented dressed at a ball in Paris. "Excellent," she interposed, the speaker with "Please, don't call me excellency." I like best to be called 'Frau Von Bismarck.' That reminds me so of a joyful time when Otto and I, as modest country people, first met in the fair schools of the Elbe in the far-off village and other villages. Now my husband belongs to the whole world."

"Dear child," her husband smilingly said, "those times will return some day when we are old and the world does not want us any longer."

Not Conductive to Happiness.

On Sept. 27, 1894. The following competition Class A records were also placed to his credit. One third, 1.15 m.; 44 seconds; two thirds, a mile, 1 minute 25.2 seconds; three quarters of a mile, 1 minute 37 seconds. There has been some talk of Porter joining the professional ranks, as it is reported, that he has received overtures to race in America. He says, however, that he intends to race in this country next season and will in all likelihood be seen in Class B.

During the year the Riverside Wheelmen have turned out a number of speedy racing men. W. A. Barbeau of New York city, who is a member of the New York bicycle club, has won many meets and met with good success, considering that he had to compete with much older riders. Barbeau entered the recent races at the Madison Square garden, and at once jumped into prominence as the champion in Class A. He has won six wins since the second prize there, including this one mile indoor Class A championship. At Philadelphia he won additional laurels and lowered several indoor records. On the opening night he reduced the half mile record to 1 minute 5.8 seconds, and on Dec. 15 he lowered the one mile record to 2 minutes 14.2 seconds. He won five races at the Philadelphia meeting. It is said that individuals have been held out to the Riverside club to join Class B, but it is likely that he will remain steadfast to Class A during 1895.

The state senate, however, has passed a bill providing for contest of state elections and the General Assembly is made the trial tribunal and the Supreme court in the matter.

Men and issues may change but principles never do. Bi-metallism is a principle of Democracy that can't be changed at this late date. Upon that platform we must stand or fall. As Grover Cleveland said less than three years ago, with proper safe guards "both gold and silver can be safely utilized upon equal terms in the adjustment of our currency."

The Louisville Post has been forced to show its colors and in answer to a question by the Covington Commonwealth, declares that it will not support any candidate for governor on a free silver platform or any candidate for the legislature who is not for a gold standard. This in the face of the declaration of the party at Chicago in 1892, that the use of both gold and silver as a standard money is one of the principles upon which Democracy is founded. If this new departure of the Post is Democracy some of us w o think we are Democrats must be mistaken.

His Democratic Doctrine.

We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and to the coinage of both gold and silver without discriminating against either metal or charge for mintage, but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, or be adjusted through international agreement by a suitable safeguard. Legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the parity of the two metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the arts and in the payment of debts; and we demand that our paper currency shall be kept a par with and redeemable in such coin. Democratic National Platform 1892

Things Have Changed Since Being Dethroned

The people are not the sound and honest money, abundantly sufficient in volume to supply their business needs in whatever may be the form of the people's currency, it is to a state—whether gold, silver or paper—it should be so regulated and guarded by governmental action, or by wise and careful laws, that no one can be deluded as to the certainty and stability of its value. Every dollar put into the hands of the people should be of the same intrinsic value or purchasing power. With this condition on absolutely guaranteed, both gold and silver can be safely used upon equal terms in the adjustment of our currency." Grover Cleveland's letter of acceptance 1892

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, it is not to be cured by medicine. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitutional and assisting nature in doing its work. These patients have so much faith in its restorative properties that they will offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for lots of testimonials. Address F. J. The Judgement on Hood's Pronounced by Squire Fogg.

The following testimonial comes from T. M. Fogg, Esq., who is well-known throughout Kentucky and the South as a lawyer and a man of the peace for Hardin county. His words should invoke the confidence of all who read his letter:

"T. M. Fogg & Co., Louisville, March 1, 1895.

Dear Friends:—Hood's Saraparilla I believe to be the best medicine in the world.

It has been used by me for a bad case of the grip which left my system in very bad shape. I tried every kind of medicine but none would do. In the fall of the same year I took a bottle of Hood's Saraparilla. The first dose I took Mammoth Clothing & Shoe Co.Stagnation*ABOUT AMERICAN POTTERY.

A Field in Which Women Have Reached the Very Front Rank.

America owes her first pottery to a woman. The Rockwood, which is modeled in clay that has to be kept wet while it is being worked upon and is then glazed with a translucent glaze made by Mrs. Maria Longworth Nichols, now Miss Sister Cincinnati pottery, which is made in the same general way, was also founded by a woman—a Miss Louise McLaughlin. The Chelsea pottery, which was wrested from the buried past of the Chinese, where it has been used for hundreds of years, the secret of the famous "Ox Blood" coloring, the beauty of whose ware lies in the hardness of the pottery and the marvelous coloring that the glaze takes on, employs a woman decorator, but she merely follows the copies made by b artists. The Low Pottery is modeled over a base of white porcelain and colored glaze. The use of tiles for decorative purposes is rapidly on the increase in this country. The first building to be tiled in the country was the Fulton bank of New York with 5,000 Limoges underglaze tiles costing $10,000. The tiles in the crucial hour of firing the pottery caught fire and was burned down. It was supposed that of course every tile would be lost, but the ruins fell about the kiln and preserved it and only a few tiles did not come out perfect.

It Must Be Odd, at Least.

The successful gown this season is the novel one. Women of fashion long

TO APPEAR ARTIFICIALLY ODD.

New and conspicuous effects are the vogue.

The fact that they are hard to find lends them an added charm. Here is another good original with features in a fashion never seen before.

The ripple skirt is of canary colored satin.

It is made perfectly plain with a conspicuous flare.

Very small black ostrich tips give a soft finish to the bottom of the skirt. They are arranged as if applied to the satin.

The round full sleeves are of canary colored satin.

The puffed canary colored chiffon over a foundation of white silk, which makes the color tone extremely delicate.

The low cut corsage is definitely defined by two curly black tips black satin, studded with amber stones, is used for the waistband.

The sleeve is of crepon, showing the fashionable ripple effect and finished around the bottom with little knots of violets, which are very faintly perfumed.

The crepon is also used for the foundation of the bodice.

It is made with a green belt plait down the front, and a narrow sash of violets.

The puffed sleeves are of brown velvet.

The puff extends from the shoulder to the elbow and is divided in the center by a band of violets.

The long deep cuff is a wrinkled mass of velvet. With this costume are sold a sash and a belt of violets.

The bustle shows at each side a trillie of pale violet satin and the bonnet is resplendent with a gold opaque, waving over a bed of the dainty flowers.

ANOTHER WOMAN LAWYER.

Still another woman has been admitted to the bar of Massachusetts in the person of the young lawyer, Miss Cora Bonneon, graduate of the Michigan University Law school, and already admitted to practice before the Supreme courts of Illinois and Michigan. The application for her admission was made by Alfred Hemmey of Boston, the law professor of one of the leading universities, and a staunch supporter of women in the profession. Miss Agnes Irwin, dean of Radcliffe college, was much interested in Miss Bonneon's success, and, with other notable persons, was present on the occasion of her admission.

Miss Bonneon is in class in the university and she speaks with positive enthusiasm of the kindness and courtesy with which she was treated by all her fellow students.—Harper's Bazaar.

A MOUNTAIN ROSE.

The following history of Manilla we learned from the driver and from others who had known her, a strange beauty from her infancy.

Five years before she had been the most lovely girl in the surrounding countryside, and the young men of Gravados spoke with enthusiasm of her matchless beauty. They named her "The Mountain Rose," and even the dreaded custom house officers fell, one and all, a prey to the charms of the young and beautiful Manilla the smuggler. But the latter guarded her with the most savage ferocity, giving her this brief counsel: "Amuse yourself much as you please with these young fools, but beware of seriously encouraging any of them more especially now of my own offspring; for should you ever become the fiancee of a smuggler the lives of both of you shall pay the forfeit."

All knew from the determined and desperate character of the man that he would keep his word.

As yet he had given no temptation to disobey the impious mandate of her father, for the young men of the neighborhood had each and all failed to awaken the slumbering passions of the dark-eyed beauty.

"I care for none of them," she said with decided indifference, "nor unmoved by their importunities. If I meet with one whom I truly love the case will be different. I shall take my destiny in my own hands."

About this time Constantine Valsassina, a daring smuggler, and famous hunter of the mountains, whose name was well known throughout the land, in all the country round, appeared on the scene. He was strong, courageous and handsome. The hitherto cold and impulsive heart of the village beauty was stirred to its depths, and she determined that, come what might she would wed no other than this son her's, this Napoleon of the forest. What did she know of the smuggler care for the threats of Manilla? He resolved that he would win the splendid Rose of the Mountains, and he kept his word.

She was just 20 years of age, and perhaps it was the secret of her life that had hitherto been compelled to lead, or it may be that her affections, like some marvelous mountain plants, were late in flowering; for never before had Ross Manilla's heart been stirred by that mysterious passion which men call love. The first time she saw him she shrank back in despair, and then turned pale. He noted the sigh, and then ventured one evening at sunset, on returning from the forest, to place a bouquet of mountain flowers on her balcony. Instead of receiving them with indifference or merriment, as was her wont, she raised the sweet-smelling blossoms to her lips and kissed them with a sigh.

From that moment Valsassina felt he had conquered, and the lovers lost no opportunity of being together.

So it was that the young girl, condemned to live a solitary and loveless life, with strange inconsistency now blazoned her severely for her disobedience to her father. Her companions, the village maidens, began to experience the pangs of jealousy, for the handsome smuggler had won other hearts beside those of the Mountain Rose, while the men felt wounded because each imagined that in past days she had shown some preference for himself, and hate his victorious rival accordingly. While she had all the pride of none of them, they had been resigned to their fate; but the sight of the new-comer, the adventurer, winning the prize over their heads, was too wrong.

"Ah, you think to deceive me, do you? You will see—when if you love me, now is the time to return, present your son!" Quickly approaching the door of the chamber, he burst it open with one blow. But the hunter was prepared for him. Two shots were exchanged almost simultaneously, and with a fearful oath Manilla fell dead at the feet of his young antagonist.

And thus it was that the courageous and devoted lover of the beautiful Rossa became the murderer of her father, while the terrible shock had such a powerful effect upon the sensitive mind of the daughter that she fainted on his throne, and the remorse we had watched sealing the dizzy heights was no other than the sweet Mountain Rose, whose tragic fate had been caused by the selfishness of her father and the cruel jealousy and jealousy of the people among whom she dwelt.

Nevertheless, as I looked on the soft eyes and pale, intelligent face of this humble heroine of the mountains, I could not help asking myself the questions, "Is Ross Manilla indeed bereft of reason, or is her supposed madness only assumed for a purpose?" A certain, beyond the bounds of doubt, to the contrary, however, had we watched sealing the dizzy heights was no other than the sweet Mountain Rose, whose tragic fate had been caused by the selfishness of her father and the cruel jealousy and jealousy of the people among whom she dwelt.

In A. D. 804 the breeches makers were expelled from Rome, and all persons were ordered to discontinue wearing them.

A CASOCK was originally another name for the garment now called a vest. It was afterwards applied to a long loose coat.

SCIENTIFIC MATTERS.

PHOTOLITHO has been used for some time in Germany as a means of preventing the formation of small bullae.

ANNOY is the name which has been given to the element in the atmosphere discovered by Lord Rayleigh and Prof. Ramsay.

DRAWINGS executed in London were recently successfully transmitted by wire from Paris by means of the Gray telephone.

THUS were two total eclipses of the sun in the year 1719 and two in 1889. This rare phenomenon will not happen again until the year 2057.

AN error of a thousand part of a second in an astronomical calculation would result in an error of 200,000,000 miles in the distance of the sun.

AN AMERICAN specialist in astronomy objects to the orrery because it gives so false a notion of proportions in matters celestial. An orrery that should have a sun and twelve planets must, he says, be proportionately large, or else so small as to be almost invisible, and place the nearest fixed star at a distance of three hundred miles from the sun.

IT IS extremely difficult to impossible. The profligacy of those parts are unscrupulous, and Valsassina would naturally find many accomplices and protectors among them, and would certainly prefer a country of smugglers who delighted like himself in evading the law. An abode there, in the little-known region would afford a more secure refuge for such a character than the great well-guarded routes to England and America.

These and similar considerations arose spontaneously in my mind, but the graver and more telling of the same only shook the maniac and launched him. For then Rossa started to be the most woman of the mountains, and her lover a crushed form long buried beneath the rocks.

IT IS a winter such enormous quantities of snow fall from the mountains that the whole region greatly suffered and many fatal disasters occurred. Among the latter, the cottage of Rosa Manilla was buried beneath a falling avalanche. It was generally supposed that she was absent from home at the time of the disaster. But when her body was length removed, and the mystery solved, two bodies were discovered beneath the ruins, that of the poor girl and that of a man still young whom she had in a last passionate embrace—Romance.

W. H. HOOD'S PILLS become the favorite cathartie with every one who tries

One evening when Manilla

had hitherto (thanks to the charms of his daughter) feigned not to perceive of his daughter), feigned not to perceive of his daughter, fired at once, and was near wounding the old man. The ball plowed the bag, but hastily throwing down his burden, he luckily had time to escape. But what an awakening from his false security! The old man doubted no more the tale of his daughter's disobedience, but with his habitual caution, he kept his own counsel, breathing not a word of his own suspicions to Ross, for he wished to ascertain the bitter truth for himself, and determined that when he had done so his vengeance should be swift and certain.

The two lovers, entirely engrossed by their passion, had gradually relaxed their habit of watchfulness, and having been so far fortunate in that the old man had been somewhat imprudent and careless. To surprise them in one of their stolen interviews was therefore an easy task for the wily old smuggler. He informed his daughter that he should be absent on business for three days, and that he would be in the middle of the first evening of his pretended absence. Ross and Valsassina were supping happily together, although from long habit the latter still kept his loaded weapon by his side. When they least expected it, a knock was heard at the door.

"It is the old man," cried Ross, "open immediately. I am hotly pursued by the officers!"

Ross at the same time was supplicating her lover to hide himself. This done, she went to her boudoir, and yielding to her entreaties, he retired to her bedroom and closed the door.

"At last," cried the enraged father, as he entered the house and looked around him. Then he added, in tones of fury, "Where have you hidden him?"

"Hidden whom? in the bed?" asked Ross, straining, as usual, to laugh the master off, though she grew as pale as death.

You Should Get It.

Should get what? Why, The Rev. Mr. Hick's splendid Almanac for 1865. He has kindly sent to this office a copy of the same, and we speak advisedly in saying that it is a rare publication—the very latest and best of all that has emanated from the pen and brain and heart of that well-known friend of the public. The history of the man's work—now an open book to all America—and a casual glance at his Almanac for 1865, convinces us that this vitally useful and instructive book ought to find its way into every shop, store, office and home in the land. The price of the book—only 25 cents—should be to our knowledge be invested for any thing more profitably. It contains 84 pages printed on fine book paper, with elegant covers in colors. It is for sale by all newsdealers. This fine almanac is given as a premium to every yearly subscriber to the Rev. Mr. Hick's well known and deservedly popular paper, "Word and Works." This unique journal is a peerless educator of the masses, and is fast becoming a household guardian and necessity in the homes of America. Those who want to keep up with all the advanced thought of the age in science, religion and social, commercial, intellectual and educational subjects should subscribe for Word and Works. Subscription only $1.00 a year. You can send for both direct to Word and Works Publishing Co., St. Louis, Mo.

The Modern invalid

Has tastes medicinally, in keeping with other luxuries. A remedy must be pleasantly received, for it is not only beneficial in effect and entirely free from every objectionable quality. If really ill he consults a physician; if constipated he uses the gentle laxative Syrup of Figs.

OBITUARY.

God has again seen fit to remove a little bud so fair and transplant it in Paradise, to bloom and blossom there, for earth she was too fair.

Manetta, the four year and one month old baby, of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Giles, who died Jan. 27, 1895, at their home near Bowell, Ky., was a bright and sweet child, loved by her parents and friends for the Angel of death has borne little Netta on bony wings, safely to that happy home above, where no pain or death will ever enter there. But joy and gladness will ever reign, for she was wrapped in the soft snow that wrapped the earth in a beautiful white shroud the morning she laid her tiny form in its narrow bed to wait the resurrection morn.

Abbi well do I know little brother and sister you miss her for no more will she romp or play dolls with you, nor will she kiss or hug you, nor will she have little dimpled arms around his neck and cross his arms as she has so often done in the past." But she will ever be waiting and watching to welcome each one of you, at the beautiful pearl gates, with the same fond hug and kiss that she has given you and her own.

Ere sin could harm or sorrow fade,

Death came with friendly care;

This opening but a short time ago,

And here he lies.

Her Cousin, M. E. G.
